<sup>2</sup> RAM is the computer's memory. More RAM makes an obvious difference in overall speed, allows you to run more programs at once, and makes your system less likely to get bogged down.

<sup>3</sup> Hard drive size is measured in gigabytes (GB). The hard drive stores programs, documents, and other files. Text documents don't take up much space on a hard drive. For pictures or songs, you need a larger hard drive.
